WHEREAS, a census of population and housing was conducted by the National Statistics Office (NSO) last May 1990;

WHEREAS, the final population count has yet to be officially released and proclaimed;

WHEREAS, due to the great demand from all sectors, including the public, for the population count, there is a necessity for the NSO to release the results of the preliminary count of the population by region and by province prior to the official release and proclamation by the President of the final count before the end of 1990;
