A circular is an administrative issuance. Under Section 50(1) of the Administrative Code of 1987, "Circulars shall refer to issuances prescribing policies, rules and regulations, procedures promulgated pursuant to law, applicable to individuals and organizations outside the Government and designed to supplement provisions of the law or to provide means for carrying them out, including information relating thereto."

From the foregoing, it is crystal clear that the nature of a circular is delimited. It may prescribe policies, rules and regulations, procedures promulgated pursuant to law and is designed to supplement provisions of the law or to provide means for carrying them out.

Against this backdrop, Circular No. 85-007 cannot be vested with the characteristics of an amendatory law. It cannot echo a tenor different from that of the law which sired it. In this case, it can only reverberate the singular subject of Circular No. 46 which is the Legal Research Fund. It cannot give what it does not have.

Hence, it is respectfully submitted that Circular No. 85-007 merely announced for observance the increase of the Legal Research Fund Fee from P2.00 to P10.00.
